Shaping the new office landscape

As the nature of work shifts from creating alone to creating together, a new office landscape is emerging. It's an environment that hosts spaces for time alone and time with others, often in shared spaces. As the office evolves, storage needs to evolve with it.

Storage can no longer just store. Whether owned by an individual worker, or placed in a nomadic space, the new line of lockers provides personal storage, privacy and space division. It fosters collaboration with the ability to display information and keeps team members connected by creating a shared space. Lockers are a versatile tool to use throughout the office ecosystem.

Versatility across the office

The new lockers portfolio fits users' needs anywhere in office. A variety of sizes offer storage for everything from small personal items to luggage and wardrobes. Different heights and widths provide options to create space division in the open plan.

The ability to add whiteboard surfaces gives residents or nomads a place to share information with their team or spontaneously collaborate. Lockers within reach help create a home base for mobile or resident workers, letting them focus on work and not the security of their things.

Personalised storage

Express your brand and culture with a wide range of materiality options. Lockers fit any aesthetic with choices in melamine, metal or textiles in a variety of colors.

MOBILE WORKER

Lockers allow mobile workers to settle into a space quickly, giving them peace of mind and a place to store their things out of the way.

RESIDENT WORKER

Larger lockers offer a convenient place for coats, gym bags and lunch, letting residents get to work and stay organized.

ASSIGNED MOBILE WORKER

Assigned lockers give mobile workers the much needed place to store personal belongings as they move throughout the office, allowing space to stay clear for other nomadic workers.

SPACE DIVISION

Create neighborhoods, meeting spaces, a team zone or a space to rejuvenate. Lockers provide a shield for those trying to focus and give a sense of ownership to teams by defining a space.

COLLABORATION

Give workers a space to create together. Lockers with whiteboards or pinnable textile foster collaboration while providing valuable storage space on the opposite side.

TEAM STORAGE

Shared storage between team members saves time and helps keep projects organized.
